Skip Tumelu

OCCUPATION

DEPARTMENT STORE MANNEQUIN

DESCRIPTION

A ten-year veteran as a department store mannequin, Skip was lured by Carmen to a life of crime by the promise of a new spring wardrobe. This straw-haired native of Wahoo, Nebraska, is now the gang's lookout. He is largely inconspicuous when standing on a street-corner, unnoticed by policemen or bystanders, although dogs and pigeons do pose a problem. Behind the vacuous stare of Skip's emerald-green eyes lies an equally vacuous mind, and even among Sandiego's motley crew there is agreement that Skip is the very definition of "airhead." Skip has a love of nature; he often goes bird-watching for bald eagles, blissfully unaware he is hundreds of miles from their natural habitat.
